AFFIDAVIT OF MARIE CAREW

Personally appeared before the undersigned attesting officer, duly authorized by law to administer oaths, Marie Carew, who being duly sworn, on oath states that she is over the age of eighteen (18) years, and has personal knowledge of the facts set forth in this Affidavit or such knowledge is as stated herein, and makes this Affidavit for use as evidence for any and all matters in the above-styled action and all purposes authorized by law.

1. My name is Marie Carew, and I am the Marie Carew named in the herein lawsuit and as the Complainant;
2. I manage and direct all activities of Holiday Shipping, at all times, and have reviewed all the documents maintained in the course of business by Holiday Shipping and all other affiliated businesses;
3. At all times, I operated as an ocean freight forwarder—ocean transportation intermediary (OTI), and appropriately licensed by the Federal Maritime Commission (FMC);
4. On or around September 2018, Complainant transported four (4) consignments through Respondent, Maersk Line A/S, under the following bills of lading: B/L 965477262; B/L 96544009; B/L 965751148; and B/L 965885829;
5. Beginning around October 11, 2018, Respondent refused to release consignments belonging to different customers, which Complainant transported through Respondent due to disputes with payment arrears;

6. Respondent maintained that Complainant owed $222,875.42, which consisted of freight, demurrage, and detention charges. See Exhibit "A";
7. The four (4) consignments listed in ¶14 were among the several consignments that Respondents refused to release despite paying the freight on each of these consignments. See Exhibits "B";
8. The Complainant and Consignees made several overtures to Respondent to release the consignments, which Respondent turned down. See Exhibits "C";
9. The Complainant hired counsel to resolve the payment dispute with Respondent and negotiate a settlement, which Respondent turned down. See Exhibits "D" & "D-1";
10. The above four (4) containers were among the seventy-nine (79) bills of lading that Respondent alleged in its Complaint in the Federal District Court of the Southern District of New York;
11. In the B/L 965885829, for example, the consignee, Soyinka Samson, applied to the Federal Government of Nigeria, Nigeria Customs Service (NCS) for clearance of the contents of the containers. On March 5, 2019, the consignee paid #775,854.00 Naira through Guarantee Trust Bank PLC to the NCS. Notwithstanding, Respondent has refused to release the container and its content to the consignee. See Exhibit "E";
12. Each of the B/L 965477262, B/L 96544009, and B/L 965751148 contained items consolidated for shipment. Consignees requested local clearing agents in Nigeria to process the containers through the NCS's clearance. The agents that the Consignees retained need the bill of lading to process the release of the containers. Without the bills of lading, clearing agents cannot initiate or perform their responsibilities and neither approach the NCS nor Respondent's agent, Maersk Line, Nigeria. See Exhibit "F";
13. The efforts of Complainant to reach out to the clearing agents in Nigeria and the consignees have resulted in limited successes as the consignees have resulted in either legal actions or abandon the consignment. As such, Complainant cannot procure sworn testimonies from the clearing agents and consignees;
14. Respondent remains in the custody of the herein listed four (4) consignments and refuses to release them to the appropriate Consignees.

Subject: RE: Holiday Shipping

Ms. Patel—

Good afternoon.

As we discussed over the phone, Ms. Carew came to my office today, brought $23,630 Cashier's Check. According to her, she succeeded in collecting freight on nine (9) containers. Some of the owners of the containers are hesitant to pay for the freight on their containers because of the news that Maersk may not release the containers after all. Also, she stated that one of the owners of the freight has indicated his intention to abandon his freight. However, she is yet to obtain a letter from the customer of that decision.

Least to say that Ms. Carew is between a rock and a hard place; she has to resolve these matters for the survival of her business.

According to her, the $222,875.42 that you stated in your email consists of the following items:

- Freight on the current containers;
- Demurrage on the current containers; and
- Demurrage on past containers.

According to her, when Maersk denied her claims that she sent the titles late to the company, Maersk was referring to the delay occasioned by receiving the Proof Rated Titles from the Customs. Ms. Carew has requested that I explain this issue to you, as those charges are different from the demurrage occasioned by the Customs' inspection.

As we discussed in the past, Ms. Carew understands that she has to resolve all these charges. However, she needs time to clarify and resolve the demurrage. I intend to work on this particular matter.

Last, I have attached a copy of the three (3) cashier's check Ms. Carew collected from the owners of the freights. The three (3) checks totaled $23,630. As you may be able to isolate from the first Cashier's Check, for $12,630, the check is for the following Bill of Lading:

1. B/L 965640202;
2. B/L 965640203;
3. B/L 965975136;
4. B/L 965965069.

The second check for $6000.00 is for the following the Bill of Lading:

1. B/L 966078843;
2. B/L 965975134;
3. B/L 965786728.

The third check for $5000.00 is for the following the Bill of Lading:

1. B/L 966088624;
2. B/L 965975140.

I will need to know if Maersk will work with Ms. Carew to release the containers to individuals that have paid as she proceeds to clarify the existing problems. I shall wire transfer the $23,630 immediately I get a response from you.

Sincerely,

Yinka T. Omole, Esquire

Good Day Mr. Omole,

Please see attached statement for Holiday Shipping. On this statement you'll see open invoices separated by freight charges and Demurrage/ Detention (blue). Also, I've added comments where there was a dispute based on the notes in the system regarding the dispute rejection. This is what we need to start focusing on because Maersk has already advised that the account needs to be up to date.

As per our last conversation, I was unable to find any further information about the customs exam timeframe so any emails etc. that Marie has to support her claims will be useful.

Please review the attached and we can set up a time to discuss. Thanks,

Thanks,

Kathy Patel

RE: Maersk Line v. Holiday Shipping, d/b/a/Holiday Shipping and Trucking, LLC.

Dear Ms. Patel:

As discussed, Ms. Marie Carew, Manager and owner, Holiday Shipping and Trucking, has requested that I present the herein settlement proposal to your client, Maersk Line, to settle any and all issues concerning the past demurrage that the company has accumulated. Holiday Shipping understands that all outstanding freight charges shall be due immediately. The settlement proposal is based, in part, on Ms. Carew's long and established relationship with Maersk Line, the equity and justice in the outstanding demurrage charges, and further, the financial strength of Ms. Carew and her company, the Holiday Shipping and Trucking, my client. I am proposing, and on behalf of my client, under Rule 408 of the Federal Rules of Evidence and other appropriate laws.

FINANCIAL STATUS

Holiday Shipping and Trucking has had more than fifteen (15) years of mutual and beneficial agency relationships with Maersk Line. During this period, Maersk Line has given my client several performance bonuses while she has shipped hundreds of containers through Maersk Line, and in the process, made Maersk Line millions of dollar in return. According to Ms. Carew, Maersk Line is the biggest and the most equitable in the industry. As such, she intends to have a continued relationship with the company.

Notwithstanding, Maersk Line claims that Holiday Shipping and Trucking owes $146,661.00, solely due to demurrage on containers that the US Customs & Border Protection (USCBP) at the Port of Savannah held for inspection. Maersk Line, incorrectly, claims that Ms. Carew filed her Automated Export System (AES) and validated titles documents late, and generated roll-over charges in the process. She emphatically and unambiguously denies these claims. On the other hand, Ms. Carew states that US Customs and Border Protection (henceforth "USCBP") has instituted an intractable programs of inspections that, in part, lead to the underlying delays and demurrages.

It is without question that the USCBP, the agency charged with the sole authority for inspection of containers and shipments through the Ports of the territorial boundaries of the US, frequently flags containers for heightened inspection, and holds those containers for inordinate amount of time in the process. Even, when the Agency release a validated title, it is not unusual for the Agency to further detain consignments. These intractable programs are responsible for the accumulated demurrages. And, neither the shippers nor the containers' owners have any control or contribute to any of the activities of the USCBP.

It is important to note that the Federal Maritime Commission (FMC) is currently taking steps to ameliorate the financial effects of the USCBP inspection on shippers and trucking organization. Commissioner Rebecca Dye of the Federal Maritime Commission is currently on a nationwide tour to access this particular issue, which affects more than my client. Ms. Carew and others, similarly affected, have retained undersigned to prosecute their grievances over the unfair assessment of penalties due to detention, demurrages, and per diem charges with both the Commission and the USCBP. See Exhibit "A".

The following cases enumerate my client's position and contradicts Maersk Line argument:

1. B/L 965030821, with Container #: MRKU5260072. My client submitted the Letter of Intent for export and the Shipping Instructions on May 23, 2018. On same day, container arrived at the Port of Savannah. In the container were three (3) used vehicles. USCBP returned the Validated Titles to my client at 1:15 PM on June 12, 2018, a period of almost three (3) weeks. On the same day, June 12, 2018, at 21:53 PM, my client forwarded the Validated Title to Maersk Line. Even, after the USCBP return the Validated Titles to my client, the Agency did not release the consignment until sometime around July 10, 2018. In the enclosed invoice for demurrage that Maersk Line gave my client, it claims that the container incurred a total of twenty-nine (29) days in demurrage charges, (From 05/31/2018 to 07/10/2018), and in the amount of $5,100.00. I enclosed the documents supporting the above assertions. See Exhibit "B".
2. B/L 965786726, with Container #: MSKU9387072. My client submitted the Letter of Intent for export and the Shipping Instructions on July 27, 2018. On same day, container arrived at the Port of Savannah. In the container were for (4) used vehicles. USCBP returned the Validated Titles to my client on August 16, 2018, at 12:42 PM, a period of almost three (3) weeks. On the same day, August 16, 2018, at 21:00 PM, my client forwarded the Validated Title to Maersk Line. Even, after the USCBP returned the Validated Titles to my client, the Agency did not release the consignment until sometime around August 23, 2018. In the enclosed invoice for demurrage that Maersk Line gave my client, it claims that the container incurred a total of twenty (20) days in demurrage charges, (From 08/04/2018 to 08/23/2018), and in the amount of $3,480.00. I enclosed the documents supporting the above assertions. See Exhibit "C".
3. B/L 965640166, with Container #: MSKU1920441. My client submitted the Letter of Intent for export and the Shipping Instructions on July 19, 2018. On the same day, container arrived at the Port of Savannah. In the container were four (4) used vehicles. USCBP returned the Validated Titles to my client on July 26, 2018, at 1:05 PM, a period of just one (1) week. On the same day, July 26, 2018, at 2:42 PM, my client forwarded the Validated Title to Maersk

Line. Even, after the USCBP returned the Validated Titles to my client, on August 1, 2018, Maersk Line sent an email to my client that the container was still on-hold by USCBP. It appears that the Agency released the container on or around August 5, 2018. Even after USCBP released the container, the Agency removed two of the vehicles in the container. In the enclosed invoice for demurrage that Maersk Line gave my client, it claims that the container incurred a total of nine (9) days in demurrage charges, (From 07/28/2018 to 08/05/2018), and in the amount of $1,500.00. I enclosed the documents supporting the above assertions. See Exhibit "D".

4. B/L 965751148, with Container #: MSKU8445214. My client submitted the Letter of Intent for export and the Shipping Instructions on July 27, 2018. On same day, container arrived at the Port of Savannah. USCBP returned the Validated Titles to my client on August 27, 2018, one month after. On the same day, August 27, 2018, my client forwarded the Validated Title to Maersk Line. Container left on September 4, 2018. In the enclosed invoice for demurrage that Maersk Line gave my client, it claims that the container incurred a total of thirty (30) days in demurrage charges, (From 08/06/2018 to 09/04/2018), and in the amount of $5,280.00. I enclosed the documents supporting the above assertions. See Exhibit "E".
5. B/L 966088619, with Container #: PONU7268829. My client submitted the Letter of Intent for export on August 24, 2018. The day after, August 25, 2018, container arrived at the Port of Savannah and with the Shipping Instructions. USCBP returned the Validated Titles to my client at 1:25 PM on September 24, 2018, one month after. On the same day, at 8:58 PM on September 24, 2018, my client forwarded the Validated Title to Maersk Line. Even, after the USCBP return the Validated Titles to my client, it appears that the Agency did not release the consignment until sometime around October 7, 2018. In the enclosed invoice for demurrage that Maersk Line gave my client, the company claims that the container incurred a total of thirty-six (36) days in demurrage charges, (From 09/02/2018 to 10/07/2018), and for $6,360.00. Of equal aggravation is that Maersk Line claims additional charges of $825.00 in roll-over. I enclosed the documents supporting the above assertions. See Exhibit "F".
6. B/L 965485698, with Container #: MRKU2268803. My client submitted the Letter of Intent for export and the Shipping Instructions on July 7, 2018. On same day, container arrived at the Port of Savannah. USCBP returned the Validated Titles to my client at 12:37 PM on August 7, 2018, a period of one (1) month. On the same day, on June 12, 2018, at 20:42 PM, my client forwarded the Validated Title to Maersk Line. On July 31, 2018, Maersk Line had notified my client that USCBP did not load the vehicles in the container as my client had previously loaded the vehicles, and would remove a vehicle from the container. According to my client, she is yet to retrieve the vehicle. It appears that on August 16, 2018, USCBP released the container for shipping. In the enclosed invoice for demurrage that Maersk Line gave my client, it claims that the container incurred a total of thirty (30) days in demurrage charges, (From 07/18/2018 to 08/16/2018), and in the amount of $5,280.00. Equally, Maersk Line claims additional charges of $1,100.00 in roll-over. I enclosed the documents supporting the above assertions. See Exhibit "G".
7. B/L 965885829, with Container #: MRKU6064475. My client submitted the Letter of Intent for export and the Shipping Instructions on August 14, 2018. On the same day, container arrived at the Port of Savannah. USCBP returned the Validated Titles to my client at 11:40 PM on September 12, 2018, a period of almost one (1) month. On the same day, on September 12, 2018, at 20:08 PM, my client forwarded the Validated Title to Maersk Line. It appears that on September 18, 2018, USCBP released the container for shipping. See Exhibit "H".

The above seven (7) containers are emblematic of the issues that my client has faced. Again, it is counterintuitive to argue that my client at any time filed either her shipping instructions or forwarded the validated titles late. She did not!

Ms. Carew is a sixty-two (62) year-old woman and married. Mr. James Carew, her husband, is unemployed; diagnosed with colon and prostate cancer. Ms. Carew is the sole caregiver for her husband. Ms. Carew has operated Holiday Shipping and Trucking for many years. According to Ms. Carew, she paid a huge amount of money to resolve demurrages that Maersk claimed she owed last year. However, the excessive demurrages and other intractable issues with the Savannah Ports have made the business difficult this year.

SETTLEMENT PROPOSAL

Ms. Carew has requested that I present this proposal to Maersk Line, which takes into accounts her financial strength, the inequity of the demurrages that Maersk claims, and her past business experiences with Maersk. Again, my client intends to continue this business relationships. However, the continued detention of the above seven (7) containers is an impediment to that relationships and the survival of her business.

I propose a total settlement to resolve any and all the outstanding demurrages to date of $20,000.

Please let me know if you would like to discuss this settlement proposal.

Yours very truly,

RE: Association of Container Shippers, Atlanta¹

Dear Mr. Stroud:

I represent a group consisting of container shippers based out of Atlanta, Georgia and that utilizes the Port of Brunswick, Savannah to ship cars and others to various parts of Africa. Kindly direct all future communications to the undersigned.

Again, my clients are local shippers, however, utilizes your Port to ship various containers to Africa. My clients' business models are similar—they solicit customers wishing to ship used and new vehicles to Africa, which they then load into containers and transports to container shipping companies, such as Maersk and others. Per my information, each of the container shipping companies maintain a jetty or dock at the Port of Savannah, where ocean liners berth and load the containers for onward transportation to their final port of destination. According to my clients, your department, the US Customs and Border Protection, performs inspections of the containers before the container shipping companies load them onto the ocean liners. If the synopsis of my clients' business protocols and interaction with your department is incorrect, I am responsible for the error and appreciate your correction.

According to my clients, whenever a container arrives at the gate of the Port of Savannah, your department flags each container for inspection. And, your agents send the container to a private warehouse for the inspection. Your inspection consists of offloading each vehicle out of the container. My client(s) is not present during your inspection. After the inspection, your agents or others at your control, reload the vehicles into the container. Of concerns, though, are: (1) that your agents reload the vehicles and others back into the container without regard to how my client(s) initially loaded the container; (2) often, your agents would fail to reload all the contents from inside the container back as previously loaded; (3) sometimes it takes your agents four (4) weeks or more to perform the inspection; (4) my client(s) bear the cost for storage and other charges from the private warehouses; and (5) those charges are then communicated to my client(s) through the Shipping Companies after the containers have left the Port of Savannah.

Again, per my clients, any inspection after the first seven (7) days of the container diverted onto a private warehouse attracts extra charges from the private warehouse. An estimation of the average time for your inspection suggests about thirty (30) days. My client(s) contends that each of these private warehouses, including the Georgia Ports Authority at the Ports of Savannah, appears to benefit economically from your delayed inspections and the extra days the containers spends inside these warehouses, my clients' businesses, on the other hand, are at the point of extinction.

It becomes even worse when your department delays the containers past the ocean liners' departure from the Port of Savannah. In those situations, the extra charges for the storage of the containers, and which my client(s) could not take out of the Port, inure insidiously to the detriment of my clients. The customers that my clients serve are, often, unsatisfied that my clients are not part of a criminal enterprise.

Further, it is not uncommon for your agents to reload the containers without vehicles that my clients previously loaded in those containers, and which creates its unique problems for my clients' customers—the owners of those containers, at the ports of destination. As expected, my clients would have had to advise the owners of those containers of the contents inside the containers before the ocean liners arrive at the ports of destination. However, when agents from your department reload vehicles and other contents, different from what my clients previously loaded, back into the containers, any information from my clients to their customers becomes suspect and inadequate. In the past, my clients assisted with offloading and re-loading of those containers for inspection purposes, and were able to contribute their expertise to the processes and without hampering the inspection of men and women from your department.

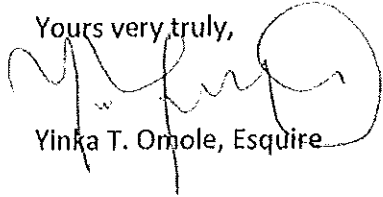

My clients understand your need to keep terrorists and their weapons from entering the U.S., and to enforce all other laws, which includes the thorough inspection of the containers that move in and out of the Port of Savannah. However, my clients are small business owners with legitimate businesses, concerned that your department changed its inspection protocol recently, and the changes have introduced bottlenecks that potentially could wipe their businesses out. And, your department introduced the changes in your inspection protocol without any advice to them as a group or individually.

My clients consider the recent changes to your inspection protocol onerous, unnecessary, and expensive. My clients believe, even if the changes to your inspection protocol was well-intentioned, the effect of those changes deprives them of revenue and unduly tax their businesses. My clients are willing to meet with you or your agent to present their demands with the goal of reaching a meaningful solution to their problems. To this end, my clients have requested a response to this letter within the next twenty-one (21) days. I will mark my calendar for the Wednesday, October 17, 2018.

Again, direct any further questions or concerns to me

Hi Marie,

965640166//MSKU1920441 Maersk has been notified by Georgia Port Authority in Savannah that vehicle(s) were not loaded as scheduled following a Customs examination. Georgia Port Authority has stated that due to nonconformity and physical constraints the below stated Vehicle(s) were not reloaded following an examination; Maersk is not responsible for USCBP/GPA regulations and/or protocol.

We are providing the following options for those customers whose vehicles were not loaded:

Option 1: Create a new booking for the next available vessel with space and have the terminal reload the container. The shipper will be responsible for the standard contracted booking fees and load fees.

Option 2: Customers can pick up the vehicles at Georgia Port Authority Warehouse 83. Customer will need to contact GPA to arrange the pick-up appointment. Drivers must have TWIC Card in order to access the Port.

Vehicles on Terminal:

MSKU1920441	BLUE TOYOTA CAMRY	4T1BE46K88U756380
	SILVER TOYOTA CAMRY	4T1BK3EK5AU099399

Please let us know how you would like to proceed with these vehicles.

Kind regards,

Date: Tue, Aug 21, 2018 11:36 am

Hi Marie,

965751148//MSKU8445214 Maersk has been notified by Georgia Port Authority in Savannah that vehicle(s) were not loaded as scheduled following a Customs examination. Georgia Port Authority has stated that due to nonconformity and physical constraints the below stated Vehicle(s) were not reloaded following an examination; and Maersk is unable to override this decision.

We are providing the following options for those customers whose vehicles were not loaded due to the USCBP examination:

Option 1: Create a new booking for the next available vessel with space and have the Georgia Port Authority load the container. The vehicle(s) left on Terminal would be loaded into a separate container and a new BL would be manifested. The shipper will be responsible for all applicable charges, these include but are not limited to; standard contracted booking charges and loading fees. Loading fees will need to be quoted by GPA.

Option 2: Customers can pick up the vehicles at Georgia Port Authority Warehouse 83. Customer will need to contact GPA to arrange the pick-up appointment. Drivers must have TWIC Card in order to access the Port.

Vehicles on Terminal:

Subject: 965485698//MRKU2268803 Vehicle(s) on Terminal

Date: Tue, Jul 31, 2018 4:01 pm

Hello Marie,

965485698//MRKU2268803 Maersk has been notified by USCBP in Savannah that vehicle(s) were not loaded as scheduled following a Customs examination. USCBP has stated that due to liability reasons, Customs will not stack vehicles following an examination; Maersk is not responsible for USCBP regulations and/or protocol.

We are providing the following options for those customers whose vehicles were not loaded due to the USCBP examination:

Option 1: Create a new booking for the next available vessel with space and have the terminal reload the container. The shipper will be responsible for the standard contracted booking fees and load fees.

Option 2: Customers can pick up the vehicles at USSAVGC. Customer will need to contact GPA to arrange the pick-up appointment. Drivers must have TWIC Card in order to access the Port.

Vehicles on Terminal:

-------------	---------------------	--------------------

Please let us know how you would like to proceed with these vehicles.

Kind regards,

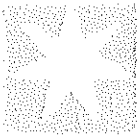

Joshua Lippincott

Dear Mr. Omole:

This letter is without prejudice, and with a full reservation of all of our rights, as was our phone discussion last week. While one could sympathize with your client as to the delays occasioned by the U.S. Customs Service, as per your letter to them, we both know that pursuant to the Bill of Lading language, your client is liable for the time when the cargo is in the hands of customs. We cannot proceed to accept and reinstate for 15 % on the dollar out of sympathy, nor can we accept same and reinstate.

As you know, your client has a bond for $75K, for just such exigencies. We are not going to make believe that it does not exist. Given that your client wants to be reinstated, I would think that a much better offer is necessary. While do not have the authority to accept this from my client, I believe that a payment of 85% on the dollar, lump sum, would be acceptable, and, would allow for reinstatement.

I will delay filing suit for one week, and await your reply. bp

Subject: RE: Maersk v Holiday

Mr. Press—

Today, I met with my client to discuss your response of Monday, January 28, 2019. She asked that I reiterate her offer of settlement of $20,000 to you. Among others, Ms. Carew states that your client, Maersk, in each of the cases in question, released bill of lading and allowing her Principals, the USPPI, collect their containers at the different ports of destination before notifying her of any demurrage charges. According to her, the contract of engagement between her and the customers ends whenever the USPPI received the bill of lading and freight at the port of destination. As such to expect that she's responsible for the demurrage charges is unnecessarily prejudicial.

Again, the sole purpose of presenting this settlement offer is because of the long and enduring relationship that she has had with Maersk and specifically, request that I present the proposal under O.C.G.A. § 24-4-408 and other relevant laws.

Kindly, present this offer to your client.

Sincerely,

Yinka T. Omole, Esquire
