Informal Docket No. 1954(F)

TAYLORS RESOURCES, INC. d/b/a BRIDGEWATER LANDING, INC. (USA)

COMPLAINANT

v.

mitsui o.s.k. lines, ltd.

RESPONDENT

AMENDED ANSWER OF RESPONDENT MITSUI O.S.K. LINES, LTD. TO ORDER TO SUPPLEMENT THE RECORD

Respondent, Mitsui O.S.K. Lines, Ltd. ("MOL"), acting in the United States by and through its general agent, MOL (America) Inc., answers the Order to Supplement the Record, as follows:

Answers to the Questions for Both Parties

1. Yes. There are six email messages preceding the May 28, 2013 communication from Bridgewater to MOL, all relating to requests by MOL for assistance in contacting the consignee in China, after attempts by MOL's office in China proved futile. See attached MOL-114 – MOL-117.
2. Yes. The consignee, Tianjin Shanhai Jiafu Commercial Trade Co., Ltd., took delivery of container MOEU0717549 on June 27, 2013 in Xingang.
3. Not applicable.

4. Not applicable.
5. Not applicable.
6. Not applicable.
7. MOL's shipping agency issued the delivery order for MOLU26005541206 on June 14, 2013. The consignee, Tianjin Shanhai Jiafu Commercial Trade Co., Ltd., took delivery of container MOEU0717549 on June 27, 2013 in Xingang. Attached at MOL-118 – 119, as proof of delivery, is a copy of MOLU26005541206, stamped with the consignee's seal, along with a Request to Release Cargo Without Original Bill of Lading, in Chinese, which is also stamped with the consignee's seal, and is accompanied by a verified translation thereof (MOL-120 – MOL-122). It has never been explained to MOL why the same consignee failed to take delivery of container MOEU0108835.

Answers to the Questions for MOL

- A. As is standard practice, the consignee was initially notified of the arrival of container MOEU0108835 by way of an arrival notice, which was sent via facsimile (a copy of which could not be located by the destination office). Thereafter, MOL's shipping agency sent another written notice dated March 15, 2013 urging the consignee to pick up the goods. This notice was written in Chinese, and is attached as MOL-123. A verified translation thereof is attached as MOL-124 – MOL-126.

Unfortunately, the consignee failed to pick up the cargo. On April 18, 2013, MOL's office in China contacted MOL's office in the U.S. requesting assistance in reaching the shipper, Bridgewater. See, MOL-127 – MOL-131.

- B. On April 22, 2013, MOL sent Bridgewater an email advising that MOEU0108835 had arrived in Xingang, and that despite MOL China's repeated attempts to reach the consignee, the container had not been picked up. See, MOL-116 – MOL-117.
- C. Please refer to the answer in (B) above.
- D. The service contract extended to the Merchant 14 days free time (MOL-022). Detention charges accrued thereafter. On page 4 of MOL's Answer to the Amended Complaint, MOL responded to allegations of Bridgewater that MOL failed to notify Bridgewater of the failure of the consignee to take delivery of the cargo within a reasonable period of time. MOL's answer points out the fact that the free time extended to the Merchant 14 free days, and in addition, the bill of lading allowed the Merchant another 30 days within which to take delivery, before MOL might take any adverse action. In other words, according to the bill of lading and the service contract, the Merchant had a total of 44 days to take delivery of the cargo, before MOL might take any adverse action. However, those 44 days were not free days. According to the service contract between the parties, detention began to accrue after the expiration of 14 days free time. See, MOL-022.

The schedule of fees (MOL-112) states that the cargo was stored at the port for 718 days, until February 28, 2015. However, MOL did not regain the use of its container at that time. The cargo had to be subsequently transported to Hong Kong, and dumped. As indicated in MOL-089, MOL did not regain the use of the empty container until April 3, 2015. It is MOL's position that detention continued to accrue up until April 3, 2015.

In this case, the cargo arrived at Xingang on March 12, 2013, and the empty was returned April 3, 2015. This was a total of 752 days, during which MOL was deprived of the use of its equipment. Subtracting 14 free days leaves 738 days, which means MOL's demand actually understates the amount due. However, MOL will stand by its original demand.

Dear Toukta,

As you are probably aware there is great confusion in the China plastic scrap market due to the operation Green Fence policy enacted by the Chinese government. Our original consignee for this shipment has indicated material may not clear customs in Xingang. Every day this container collects more and more detention charges. We have another consignee lined up to take this container in Hong Kong and are requesting an economical rate so material may be unloaded from the container and MOL can have its container back. Can you help us.

Carrier: MITSUI O.S.K. LINES, LTD.

The above-mentioned goods are our imported goods. The shipper _____ has returned a full set of the original bill of lading to the carrier or did not require the carrier to issue the original bill of lading, we now request to use this REQUEST TO RELEASE CARGO WITHOUT ORIGINAL BILL OF LADING in exchange for a small bill of lading (delivery order). Please allow. For this reason, our commitment is as follows:

1. In the event that your company, the carrier, the carrying vessel, the ship owner, the charterer, the master and the carrier's agent are involved in any lawsuits, claims, liabilities, losses and expenses for releasing the cargo without the original bill of lading, Including litigation costs and attorneys' fees, we will make full compensation to you or the parties concerned, so to protect you or the parties concerned against any losses.
2. In the event that your company and any of the aforementioned parties are involved in any lawsuits or claims as the result of the delivery of the above mentioned goods, we shall promptly come forward to proceed or engage in the lawsuits directly at the request of your company or the parties concerned, or provide sufficient funds as needed or provide compensation.
3. Timely conduct customs clearance procedures, take delivery of the goods, conduct devanning operations and return the container to the carrier or its agent. If we fail to take delivery of the goods and return the container within the free demurrage timeframe, we agree to pay the container detention fee to your company or other agents of the carrier according to the standard of container detention fee executed by your company or carrier in Tianjin Xingang. We hereby confirm that we understand the carrier's container detention fee standard implemented in Tianjin Xingang area, and agree that this standard applies to the above-mentioned cargo.
4. In the event that the container for the above mentioned cargo is damaged, lost or dirty due to the reasons of the shipper, we will timely compensate your company or other agents of the carrier the repair fee and cleaning fee or compensate for the residual value of the container.

5. If we refuse to bear the aforementioned responsibilities, your company or the carrier has the right to file a lawsuit against us within two years from the date of the issuance of the bill of lading.

We hereby apply for this request.
