Methodology for Calculation of Detention Charges:

For calculation purposes each day used after free time expiration will be billed based on the scale table noted in tariff rules according to the total amount of days used including the allowable free days stated in tariff or vice contract. For example, if 35 days are used and 14 days are free, then 21 days are billable. Calculation of charges starts from the 15th day, as this is the first billable day after Free Time expiration. Day 15 will be billed at the charge stated in the scale table for day 15; day 16 will be billed at the charge stated in scale table for day 16; and so forth, up to 21 total of used days.

Hi Jennifer

To clarify further, our position is that, at the current time, the exhibits may not be filed. We are open to considering a redaction proposal, but a response will not be immediate, as Rebecca and Kaya will need to discuss it between themselves and with our client. Once that is done and we reach agreement, we will not object to the filing of a properly redacted version.

Thank you for clarifying Eric.

Kaya, we are well aware of the ruling entering our stipulated protective order. We are requesting COSCO's position on its initial confidentiality designations and stating VCC's position on the same. It appears COSCO's position is that Exhibits 3 and 5 are properly designated as confidential under the protective order in their entirety and cannot be redacted for public filing.

We will confer internally regarding your request for a redaction proposal.

Jennifer

Not to be the voice of moderation, but what I understand Kaya to be saying is that we believe you should be the party to present a proposal, which we will consider and respond to in good faith. Hopefully such matters can be reasonably resolved without requiring you to file a motion first.

I'm sure I need not remind you that on July 17, 2024, the ALJ issued an Order granting our Consent Motion for a Protective Order, which provides at Section 9(b) that, should VCC wish to contest Respondent's designation of material as confidential, VCC must do so by filing a Motion with the court, not by sending specious emails.

We understand that the Takase deposition was provisionally designated as confidential, but do not agree that the entirety of that testimony is properly designated as confidential.

VCC's position is that most if not all of that testimony does not meet the definition of Confidential or AEO under the protective order, which is why we did not propose any redactions in the document that was filed.

Please propose reasonable and necessary redactions to the transcript by the end of this week. We are now long past the three business days allocated for input on redactions under the FMC rules.

Thank you for your prompt response. Since Exhibit 3 is marked AEO, please redact the entire document. As far as Exhibit 5, the Takase deposition transcript, please ensure that is maintained as confidential as well.

FEDERAL MARITIME COMMISSION

DOCKET NO. 24-01

Visual Comfort & Co.
v.
COSCO Shipping Lines Co. Ltd.

DECLARATION OF JOHN D. MCCOWN

1. I was retained by a consultant for Complainant Visual Comfort & Co. (“VCC”) to provide an expert opinion concerning the container shipping practices of Respondent COSCO Shipping Lines (North America) Inc (“COSCO”).

2. Shortly after I was retained in April 2024 to prepare an expert report, I studied VCC’s complaint and various documents, including VCC000005, which itemized D&D charges paid by VCC on shipments with COSCO.

3. That initial work framed a preliminary opinion that was further supported by my analysis of COSCO’s financial results compared to the industry.

4. As the preparation of my report intensified in June, I mistakenly pulled up the wrong worksheet file that became the basis for summaries in Tables 7, 9, 10, 12 and 13. That worksheet file related to a complaint brought by another company against COSCO that I had been asked to work on. It was not provided to me by VCC or its counsel. The confusion was mine alone but was assisted by the similarity of the data in the two COSCO cases.

5. I first became aware of this during my deposition when opposing counsel's screen share showed fewer rows of data than I recalled my tables were based on. At the recess we requested, I became aware that certain tables in my report were based on data from the wrong COSCO case. I committed to providing an amended report the next day, which was accomplished.

6. The sole changes I made in the amended report were to replace the data I mistakenly input from the unrelated worksheet with the data in VCC000005. My conclusions were unchanged.

7. To be clear, the changes related to quantity rather than quality and they has no effect on my opinions other than the amount that should be reimbursed to VCC. The similarity of the data from the two different COSCO cases is confirmed by the average charge per affected shipment being different by only 5%. That similarity was underscored by the difference not being pointed out in the rebuttal report by COSCO's expert. As the other COSCO case had more charges, the difference in the aggregate amounts was driven by quantity.

8. I agreed to make myself available for a continuation of my deposition on a date of COSCO's choosing to ensure that COSCO could explore this correction to my mistake. I agreed to appear for the deposition on October 4. However, COSCO cancelled that deposition and did not reschedule it.

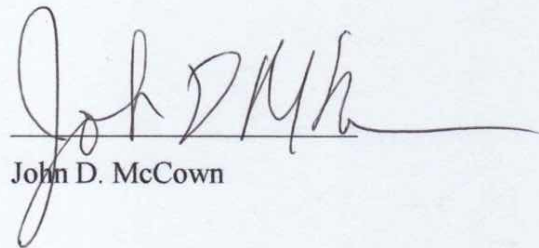

9. The only other changes I have made to my report were in response to requests made by COSCO. Specifically, on July 2, 2024, I amended my report to include Excel worksheets that underlay industry data contained in my quarterly analysis of industry results footnoted in my report with a link to where such quarterly analyses were archived and available.

10. Additionally, on October 17, 2024, I amended my report solely to remove from my calculations COSCO's charges to VCC for any shipments destined for Skokie, Illinois.

11. I stand fully behind my unchanged opinions in the October 17, 2024 report. All data in my report regarding COSCO's charges to VCC was drawn from VCC000005.

DATED: December 20, 2024

John D. McCown
