DOCKET NO. 25-04

RESPONDENTS' SUPPLEMENT TO JOINT STATUS REPORT

Respondents Amazon.com Services, LLC, Amazon Logistics, Inc., and Beijing Century Jyo Courier Service Co., Ltd provide this supplement to the parties' Joint Status Report filed March 16, 2026 to provide additional support for their request that the schedule for any further proceedings provide for briefing of summary disposition motions. Respondents provided Complainant a copy of their proposed statement so that Complainant could state its responsive position in a single filing, but Complainant's counsel stated his responsibilities preparing for trial in the related case in the Southern District of New York precluded his providing a response before Wednesday, May 6. Respondents believe the better course in that circumstance is to file now and allow Complainant to respond in due course.

In the March 16th Joint Status Report, Respondents stated that this case is appropriate for summary disposition and proposed that the schedule include time to brief motions for summary disposition. Complainant opposed that request and asked that the case be set for hearing.

Discovery has now closed, including expert discovery. In addition to the grounds to summarily dispose of the Amended Complaint stated in the March 16th Joint Status Report, including Complainant's abandonment of the theory of liability on which the one remaining count was allowed to proceed, the expert discovery has confirmed additional grounds on which summary disposition is appropriate. These include Complainant's lack of any legally cognizable theory of reparations and its failure to demonstrate entitlement to any reparations even under its own theory. None of the discovery Complainant seeks in the outstanding discovery motions, which as noted in Complainant's Motion for Ruling is sought in conjunction with the parallel Southern District litigation, is relevant to these grounds. Respondents therefore renew their request that the schedule for any further proceedings provide for briefing of summary disposition motions.

Respectfully submitted,
