DOCKET NO. 25-05

RESPONDENT MAERSK A/S's MOTION TO DISMISS

Pursuant to 46 C.F.R. 502.69 and 502.70, Respondent MAERSK A/S ("MAERSK") moves to dismiss the Complaint filed on March 10, 2025 by the Complainant FRANCIS SHEKA KANU ("KANU") with prejudice.

First, with respect to MAERSK, the Complaint essentially alleges its breach of a Service Contract causing a cargo loss over which the Commission does not have subject matter jurisdiction.

Second, the Complaint alleges KANU incurred financial loss because the subject container shipment was not delivered to the consignee in Freetown, Sierra Leone as expected on or about August 25, 2021. Thus, the action was untimely filed on March 10, 2025 (A) well after the one-year limitation period prescribed by the United States Carriage of Goods by Sea Act of 1936 ("COGSA") and (B) more than three (3) years after any claim accrued under the Shipping Act of 1984. 46 U.S.C. §§ 41301(a), 41305(b); 46 C.F.R § 502.62(a)(4)(iii).

Third, only “direct purchasers” may seek reparations under the Shipping Act, 46 U.S.C. §§ 41301 et seq. KANU does not allege he is a direct purchaser of MAERSK’s services and, thus, he lacks standing to recover reparations from MAERSK.

Fourth, the Complaint does not identify any allegedly improper transportation charges that KANU allegedly paid to MAERSK.

Fifth, the Complaint fails to specify facts supporting Shipping Act claims against MAERSK for failure to establish just and reasonable practices or refusal to deal.

The Complaint fails to state a timely or viable claim against MAERSK within the Commission’s jurisdiction and should be dismissed with prejudice.

STATEMENT OF MATERIAL FACTS

The Complaint filed on March 10, 2025 vaguely alleges MAERSK's violations of the Shipping Act and seeks reparations from MAERSK.

The Complaint alleges the shipment was booked by the Complainant FRANCIS SHEKA KANU ("KANU") with an ocean freight forwarder, Respondent EJIKE INTERNATIONAL TRADE LTD. ("EJIKE") [¶¶ III and IV(A)]. The Complaint further alleges that EJIKE, in turn, booked the shipment with Respondents SEALINES INTERNATIONAL and SEAMATES INTERNATIONAL, INC. ("SEALINES/SEAMATES") which then booked with MAERSK [¶¶ IV (E) and (F)]. The Complaint further alleges the shipment was supposed to be discharged at Freetown, Sierra Leone on or about August 25, 2021 but was, instead, discharged at Pointe Noire, Congo on or about November 18, 2021 (¶¶ IV, F & H, pp. 3-4).

The Complaint served on MAERSK attaches certain "Exhibit Supporting Documents" that do not appear to be filed with the Complaint on the Commission's electronic docket. Therefore, copies of the documents referenced below as attached to the Complaint served on MAERSK are annexed hereto as Exhibits "A" through "G."

The Complaint attaches MAERSK's Charleston/Freetown Bill of Lading No. 212399527 (Exhibit "A") reflects that 40-foot Container PONU 7794870 ("the Container") was booked with MAERSK by KANU's NVOCC, SEALINES/SEAMATES, as a port-to-port move under Service Contract No. 298546963. MAERSK's Bill of Lading (Exhibit "A") lists Amadu Jalloh in Freetown, Sierra Leone as the Container's consignee. The Complaint further attaches a copy of MAERSK's Import Invoice, dated December 7, 2021 (Exhibit "B") and Official Receipt, dated December 8, 2021, (Exhibit "C") issued to the consignee Amadu Jalloh for ocean freight charges and discharge terminal handling service charges [¶ IV (K)].

The Complaint attaches MAERSK's Delivery Order, dated December 21, 2021, (Exhibit "D") covering the Container's pick-up from the Freetown Terminal under "Merchant Haulage" delivery terms. The Complaint and attachments, including MAERSK's port-to-port Bill of Lading (Exhibit "A") and Delivery Order (Exhibit "D"), contain no information suggesting MAERSK was responsible for the Container's port storage or inland delivery from Freetown to the consignee.

The Complaint's attached June 7, 2022 email (Exhibit "E") from MAERSK customer service representative Mr. William Head to SEALINES/SEAMATES representative Ms. Lynne Nolen states, in part: "This container reached Pointe Noire [Congo] on 9/18. The latest moves shown are container moves out of the port and into another container yard." A September 19, 2022 email (Exhibit "F") from MAERSK's Congo representative Mr. Oviedo Poukouo states in part: "Container is laying in Pointe-Noire since last year as per below screenshot received from terminal relative to discharge confirmation."

The Complaint further references and attaches a check for $2,000.00 (Exhibit "G") allegedly issued by a non-party named A&B Transportation to the Complainant's shipping agent, Respondent EJIKE, for "Demurrage Charges Port Noire."

The Complaint alleges "...MAERSK was not able to re-export the Container to Freetown, Sierra Leone up till now" (emphasis added) [¶IV (O)]. The Complaint does not allege that MAERSK: (A) had any contractual relationship with KANU; (B) engaged in any willful or unreasonable conduct; or (C) directly assessed any charges to KANU. The Complaint merely alleges that KANU's own "Shipping Agent," Respondent EJIKE, "demanded and received" $2,000.00 from an unidentified entity named A&B Transportation [¶ IV(N)].

STANDARD OF REVIEW

Under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) dismissal, a cause of action must set forth "sufficient factual matter" to state "a claim to relief that is plausible on its face." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) [quoting Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007)]; Mitsui O.S.K. Lines Ltd., 2011 FMC LEXIS 12, *32 [applying Iqbal and Twombly pleading standards]. To satisfy the facial plausibility standard, a plaintiff must allege "factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged." Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678 [citing Twombly, 550 U.S. at 556]. A complaint does not state a plausible claim with a "formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action," or by making "naked assertions devoid of further factual enhancement." Id.

The federal courts apply three principles to assess "facial plausibility" under Rule 12(b)(6). First, a court may disregard "bald assertions or legal conclusions in a complaint when deciding a motion to dismiss." Mason v. Coca-Cola Co., 774 F. Supp. 2d 699, 702 (D.N.J. 2011). The United States Supreme Court held, "[t]hreadbare recitals of the elements of a cause of action, supported by mere conclusory statements, do not suffice." Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678 [citing Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555]. Second, a court may "draw on its judicial experience and common sense" when determining whether a pleading permits the court "to infer more than the mere possibility of misconduct." Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 679. Lastly, if the face of a pleading does not state a plausible claim, it should be "exposed at the point of minimum expenditure of time and money by the parties and the court." Twombly, 550 U.S. at 558.

A party may file a dispositive motion anytime "[a]fter the assignment of a presiding officer to a proceeding and before the issuance of his or her recommended or initial decision... " Id. at 502.69(a). A motion must "state clearly and concisely the purpose of and the relief sought by the motion, the statutory and principal authority relied upon, and the facts claimed to constitute the grounds supporting the relief requested." Id. at 502.69(e).

A "dispositive motion means a motion for decision on the pleadings; motion for summary decision or partial summary decision; motion to dismiss all or part of a proceeding or party to a proceeding; motion for involuntary dismissal; motion for initial decision on default; or any other motion for a final determination of all or part of a proceeding." Id. at 502.69(g). A dispositive motion must "include a concise statement of the legal basis of the motion with citation to legal authority and a statement of material facts with exhibits as appropriate." Id at 502.70.

LEGAL ARGUMENTS

I. THE COMMISSION LACKS SUBJECT MATTER JURISDICTION OVER KANU'S CONTRACT CLAIMS AGAINST MAERSK.

(A) The Complaint Fails to Allege Specific Violations of the Shipping Act.

The Complaint should be dismissed in its entirety with prejudice against MAERSK because KANU does not allege any claims against MAERSK over which the Commission has subject matter jurisdiction. The Complaint does not allege specific MAERSK violations of the Shipping Act. At most, the Complaint alleges only a claim against MAERSK for breach of a Service Contract which the Commission lacks jurisdiction to adjudicate. 46 U.S.C. Sec. 40502(f).

It is well-established that the Commission's jurisdiction is limited to claims involving alleged violations of the Shipping Act. See, e.g., Pasha Auto Warehousing v. Phi/a. Reg'/ Port Auth., 1998 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5532, at *17 (E.D. Pa. 1998) ["The Shipping Act ... only provides exclusive jurisdiction [to the FMC] over claims involving possible violations of the Shipping Act"]; In re Containership Co., 466 B.R. 219, 226 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2012).

The Commission elaborated on this point in Cargo One, Inc. v. COSCO Container Lines Co., Ltd., 28 S.R.R. 1635 (F.M.C. 2000). In that decision, the Commission held that questions concerning its jurisdiction turn on whether a claim involves elements peculiar to the Shipping Act, as amended, as distinguished from a mere breach of contract claim. Id. at 1645. Thus, "[A]s a general matter, allegations essentially comprising contract law claims should be dismissed unless the party alleging the violations successfully rebuts the presumption that the claim is not more than simply a breach of contract claim." Id. at 1645 n.17; see also Anchor Shipping Co. v. Alianca Navegacao e Logistica Ltda, 300 S.R.R. 991, 998-99 (FMC 2006).

Accordingly, the Commission requires a private party's complaint to allege a violation of the Shipping Act, as the Commission advises in its regulations. 46 C.F.R. § 502.62(a)(3)(v) ["Shipping Act violation must be alleged"]. As discussed below, the Commission lacks subject matter jurisdiction over the Complainant's cargo claim for alleged non-delivery of the Container.

(B) The Commission Does Not Have Authority Over Contract Claims.

The Commission lacks authority to hear the Complainant's claims alleging MAERSK's failure to perform its contractual obligations.

[The] Commission does not exercise the authority of a court of law or of equity. We administer and enforce the requirements of the Shipping Act and related Acts. When pleadings come before us in which violations of the Act are heavily veiled in common law pleadings it becomes difficult to distill the activities alleged to be in violation of the Act from those which indicate the possible violations of some common law obligation.

European Trade Specialists, Inc. v. Prudential-Grace Lines, Inc., 19 F.M.C. 148, 151 (FMC 1976); Western Overseas Trade and Dev. Corp. v. ANERA, 26 S.R.R. 874, 884 (FMC 1994) [Shipping Act prevents the Commission from "hearing those claims, which although couched in terms of alleged violations of the 1984 Act, seek remedies that would otherwise be available in a breach of contract action if the matter were brought before a court"]. Only claims based on the Shipping Act may be adjudicated by the Commission.

(C) The Commission Does Not Have Authority to Decide COGSA Claims.

The Complaint asserts a contractual claim against MAERSK for alleged "Failure to Deliver Cargo to the Contracted Destination" [¶IV(D)(1)(a)]. Thus, KANU asserts a claim against MAERSK for breach of its ocean Bill of Lading and Service Contract with a third party resulting in non-delivery of cargo that is governed by COGSA. Pursuant to COGSA, jurisdiction over loss and damage claims arising from transportation by ocean is vested in the federal district courts. Nat'l. Auto. Publ'n, Inc. v. U.S. Lines, Inc., 486 F.Supp. 1094, 1099 (S.D.N.Y. 1980).

As the Complaint fails to allege specific violations of the Shipping Act by MAERSK, and the Commission does not have the authority to decide breach of contract and COGSA claims, the Complaint against MAERSK must be dismissed.

II. THE COMPLAINT AGAINST MAERSK IS UNTIMELY.

(A) COGSA Limitation Period.

The Complaint would be deemed untimely under COGSA if it applied to this case. COGSA is an international treaty that was ratified by the United States in 1937 and codified by statute. Sorkin, Goods in Transit, Vol. 1, § 5.01, n.11 (2009). COGSA provides "...the carrier and the ship shall be discharged from all liability in receipt of loss or damage unless suit is brought within one year after delivery of the goods or the date when the goods should have been delivered...(emphasis added). 46 U.S.C. Sec. 30701(6). COGSA's one-year statute of limitations governing ocean carrier liability for loss, damage or delay of cargo supersedes other general statutes of limitations, including the Shipping Act's limitation periods, that might otherwise apply. Generally speaking, "a specific statute controls over a general one." Avalos v. United States, 54 F.4th 1343, 1351 (Fed. Cir. 2022)[quoting Bulova Watch Co. v. United States, 365 U.S. 753, 758, 81 S. Ct. 864, 6 L. Ed. 2d 72 [1961]].

Based on the Complaint's allegation that the Container should have been delivered to the consignee in Freetown on or about August 25, 2021, KANU's filing of the Complaint on March 10, 2025 some three (3) and a half years later is untimely under COGSA with respect to any non-delivery claim against MAERSK.

(B) Shipping Act Limitation Period.

The Complaint would also be deemed untimely filed under the Shipping Act if it applied here. A complaint for reparations must be filed within three (3) years after the claim occurs. 49 C.F.R. § 502.62(a)(4)(iii); 49 U.S.C. §§ 4130(a), 41305(b). Insofar as the Complaint seeks reparations against MAERSK for property loss or charges allegedly paid by KANU to MAERSK more than three (3) years before March 10, 2025 when the Complaint was filed, all such claims are untimely and must be dismissed.

III. THE COMPLAINT FAILS TO ALLEGE KANU IS A DIRECT PURCHASER FROM MAERSK.

(A) The Shipping Act Permits Only "Direct Purchasers" of Shipping Services to Seek Reparations.

Only those who have suffered an "actual injury" from a violation of the Shipping Act may seek reparations. 46 U.S.C. § 41305(b). The United States Supreme Court and the Commission have held that "the person that paid illegal overcharges is the only person 'directly damaged,' regardless of what may have occurred later." Intermodal Motor Carriers Conference v. OCEMA, 2024 WL 641501 at *44 (FMC Feb. 13, 2024) (emphasis added); Southern Pacific Co. v. Darnell

Taenzer Lumber Co., 245 U.S. 531, 534 (1918) [where the carrier's charge is unlawful, “the only one who can take it from him is the one that alone was in relation with him, and from whom the carrier took the sum”].

The Commission explained the “direct purchaser” rule in TCW, Inc. v. Evergreen Shipping Agency (AM) Corp.:

Under the direct purchaser rule, only the party who actually paid the carrier can sue for reparations for an overcharge, not indirect purchasers further down the chain... Under the direct purchaser rule, 'parties suing for alleged overcharges can only recover reparations if they actually paid the carrier or received an assignment from the direct purchaser.'

(emphasis added). 2022 FMC LEXIS 589 at *16, 2022 WL 18068977 at *7 (FMC Dec. 29, 2022), reversed on other grounds 106 F.4th1113, 2024 U.S. App. LEXIS 16457 (D.C. Cir. 2024).

The “direct purchaser” rule stems from antitrust cases. Southern Pacific Co., 245 at 533-534 [law does not inquire beyond “first step” of the transaction because remote parties are not in “privity with the carrier” and have no claim for alleged overcharges). The United States Supreme Court developed the privity rule “to avoid the complex task of accurately and fairly apportioning damages among various parties along the distribution chain,” The Southern Pacific rule rejects KANU’s attempts to aggregate his claims collectively against all the Respondents. In re Vehicle Carrier Services, I F.M.C.2d 440, 446 (FMC Oct. 21, 2019) [citing Illinois Brick v. Illinois, 431 U.S. 720, 730-37 (1977)].

To state a claim for reparations against MAERSK, KANU must allege that he (A) directly paid MAERSK for transportation services or (B) received a valid assignment from a direct purchaser of MAERSK services before filing the Complaint. The Complaint contains neither allegation.

(B) KANU is Not a Direct Purchaser of Services From MAERSK.

KANU alleges neither contractual privity with MAERSK nor any direct payment by him to MAERSK. Rather, KANU alleges he contracted with Respondent EJIKE, which in turn contracted with SEALINES/SEAMATES, which then contracted with MAERSK under Service Contract No. 298546963 referenced in MAERSK's Bill of Lading attached to the Complaint [¶¶ IV(A)-(F)]. The Complaint does not allege that MAERSK charged KANU, or that KANU directly paid MAERSK, for any disputed charge.

IV. THE COMPLAINT FAILS TO ALLEGE
FACTS SUPPORTING A CLAIM
AGAINST MAERSK FOR UNJUST AND UNREASONABLE PRACTICES.

The Complaint conclusorily states that KANU was directly injured by MAERSK's "failure to establish and enforce just and reasonable practices" [¶ IV(P)(1)]. MAERSK's alleged unjust and unreasonable practices include: (1) "failure to deliver the cargo to the contracted destination;" (2) "lack of transparency and coordination" and (3) failure to re-export the cargo" from Congo to Sierra Leone [Complaint, ¶ IV(P)].

To state a claim for unjust and unreasonable practices under Sec. 41102(c), KANU must particularize facts showing that MAERSK's alleged acts or omissions occur on a "normal, customary and continuous basis." 46 C.F.R. § 545.4(b); TCW, Inc., 2022 FMC LEXIS 589 at *7-8; Hang Zhou Gianwang Dress Co. v. RDO Freight Intl., Inc., 2020 WL 5406762 at *3-*5 (FMC Sept. 1, 2020). [Sec. 41102(c) requires showing that alleged carrier practice is the normal, customary, often repeated, systematic, uniform, habitual and continuous manner in which the regulated common carrier conducts business].

No such facts are alleged in the Complaint with respect to MAERSK. Rather, the Complaint merely avers that MAERSK failed to perform its Bill of Lading and the incorporated Service Contract by not delivering the Container to the consignee in Freetown and being unable to re-export the Container from Congo to Sierra Leone [¶ IV)(O)]. Crocus Investments, LLC v. Marine Transport Logistics, Inc., 2021 WL 3732849 at *8 (FMC Aug. 18, 2021), petition for review denied in sub nom, Crocus Investments v. FMC, 2022 WL 3012275 (D.C. Cir. 2022); [“Commission precedent has made clear that a single shipment or isolated act or omission does not show pattern or practice”]

As part of KANU’s unreasonable practices claim, the Complaint further alleges that MAERSK’s actions “lack transparency and coordination” [¶ IV)(1)(b)]. These vague allegations, however, fail to state a cognizable Shipping Act violation.

V. THE COMPLAINT FAILS TO ALLEGE FACTS
SUPPORTING A CLAIM AGAINST MAERSK FOR UNREASONABLE REFUSAL TO DEAL.

The Complaint conclusorily alleges that MAERSK engaged in an unreasonable refusal to deal under 46 U.S.C. § 41104(a)(10) by: (A) demanding additional payment for re-export and (B) lack of corrective action. Neither allegation is particularized with respect to MAERSK [¶ (P)(2)]. KANU does not allege that MAERSK refused to deal or negotiate with him as that phrase is construed by the FMC.

Under the Commission’s plausibility standard, an ALJ will dismiss a claim if the complainant fails to plead “enough facts to state a claim for relief that is plausible on its face.” Maher Terminals, LLC v. the Port Auth. of New York and New Jersey, Docket No. 12-02, 2015 WL 9426189, at *12 (FMC Dec. 18, 2015) [quoting Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007)]. Facial plausibility requires factual content that allows a court “to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged.” Id. [(quoting Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009)].

KANU fails to state a claim against MAERSK under Section 41104(a)(10) which makes it unlawful for a carrier to “unreasonably refuse to deal or negotiate, including with respect to vessel accommodations provided by an ocean common carrier.” The version of Section 41104(a)(10) that was in effect before June 16, 2022 and applicable to the subject 2021 shipment made it unlawful for a common carrier to “unreasonably refuse to deal or negotiate.” Regardless of which version applies to this case, KANU’s claim is deficient because it does not specify any instance in which MAERSK refused to deal or negotiate with him.

The Commission has held that common carriers must refrain from “shutting out” any person for reasons having no relation to legitimate transportation factors.

In interpreting the prohibition against unreasonable refusals to deal, the FMC has stated: The Act does not guarantee the right to enter into a contract, much less a contract with any specific terms; such as a right has not existed either before or since the passage of the OSRA. All that is required is that common carriers...refrain from ‘shutting out’ any person for reasons having no relation to legitimate transportation-related factors.

New Orleans Stevedoring Co. v. Bd. Of Commissioners of the Port of New Orleans, 29 S.R.R. 345, 351 (ALJ 2001), aff’d 29 S.R.R. 1066 (FMC 2002), aff’d. New Orleans Stevedoring Company v. Federal Maritime Commission, 30 S.R.R. 1066 (D.C. Cir. 2002).

KANU does not allege that he was shut out by MAERSK, only that MAERSK was not sufficiently helpful to his shipping agent EJIKE in recovering the Container. Even accepting the allegations in the Complaint as true only for purposes of this motion, KANU admits that MAERSK carried his cargo [¶IV(F)]. The Complaint provides no factual basis to conclude that MAERSK unreasonably denied KANU space on its vessels.

The Commission holds that Section 41104(a)(10) applies to the negotiation phase of the relationship between an ocean common carrier and a shipper. Definition of Unreasonable Refusal to Deal or Negotiate With Respect to Vessel Space Accommodation Provided by an Ocean Common Carrier, 88 Fed. Reg. 38791 (June 14, 2023). In this case, MAERSK and KANU's intermediary, SEALINES/SEAMATES, allegedly contracted to transport the Container by ocean from the United States to Africa under Service Contract No. 298546933 and MAERSK's Bill of Lading referencing the Service Contract. Thus, KANU's allegations relate to MAERSK's alleged performance of the parties' contractual shipping relationship, which is not covered by Section 41104(a)(10). Accordingly, the claim should be dismissed.

In Samsung Electronics America, Inc., Complainant v. Orient Overseas Container Line Limited and OOCL (Europe) Limited, Docket No. 24-17, 2024 WL 4893409 at *11-12, Order Partially Granting Motion to Dismiss (ALJ Nov. 18, 2024), the ALJ noted the Commission's final rule and explained the factors that determine reasonableness and the elements of a claim under § 41104(a)(10), including: (1) the respondent must be an ocean common carrier as defined in 46 U.S.C. 40102; (2) the respondent refuses or refused to deal or negotiate with respect to vessel space accommodations; and (3) the ocean common carrier's conduct is unreasonable. Id.

KANU does not allege that MAERSK failed to negotiate or deal with him with respect to vessel space accommodations. Rather, KANU is dissatisfied with MAERSK's performance under its Service Contract and Bill of Lading. KANU's allegations relate solely to MAERSK's alleged contract performance which is not governed by Section 41104(a)(10). KANU's allegations fail to state a claim against MAERSK for refusal to deal under Section 41104(a)(10) and this claim should be dismissed.

CONCLUSION

MAERSK respectfully requests that the Commission dismiss the Complaint against said Respondent in its entirety with prejudice.
