

BEFORE THE
FEDERAL MARITIME COMMISSION

DOCKET NO. 25-24

Southern International Co., LTD

Complainant,

v.

Daynamez Group of Companies LLC

Respondent.

Notification to the Proceeding

Comes Now the Respondent, Daynamez Group of Companies LLC (hereinafter referred to as Daymanez and would state the following:

1. The Respondent responded in full to the Request for Admissions on September 8, 2026.
2. There were some explanations given with the responses making them very complete.
3. This took a considerable amount of time in order to do this complete a

4. Response. For the benefit of the proceeding, a copy of the Response is attached.
5. Allowing the response will only assist with the proceedings.
6. Daymanez is a small company and the constant barrage of Discovery Motions and Requests have created a hardship.
7. The Responses will not adversely affect the proceedings as they are admissions.
8. On September 8, 2026, the Respondent responded to all of the Discovery including the Request for Admissions.
9. 46 C.F.R. § 502.147(a)(3) does not prohibit the presiding judge from extending the period of time. It specifically states,

“The presiding officer may permit withdrawal or amendment if it would promote the presentation of the merits of the action and if the presiding officer is not persuaded that it would prejudice the requesting party in maintaining or defending the action on the merits. An admission under this rule is not an admission for any other purpose and cannot be used against the party in any other proceeding. [Rule 207.]”

As per the documents submitted, there were admissions.

10. See Smith v. First Nat. Bank of Atlanta, 837 F.2d 1575 911th (11th Circuit 1988), “The court provided that plaintiff could seek relief from the withdrawal of admissions if she discovered in the course of the proceedings “that the delay has in any way affected her ability to obtain appropriate discovery.” This was done by a motion to reinstate the admissions. The district court carefully considered, but rejected, every allegation of specific prejudice.”

The Response will not prejudice anyone. It gives the Complainant and the proceeding more insight which is what the Complainant was seeking in an earlier Motion to Compel.

11. The Respondent did not file a response initially as it had admitted the assertions pursuant to the attached document. Justice will be served by allowing the more detailed responses to the Request for Admissions. The Complainant received far more than an ordinary Response.

Wherefor the Respondent requests that its Responses be allowed in this proceeding.
