

BEFORE THE
FEDERAL MARITIME COMMISSION

DOCKET NO. 26-02

NANCY PRIOR,
COMPLAINANT

AMOOV GROUP, FREIGHTLEAD LLC,
AIR 7 SEAS TRANSPORT LOGISTICS, INC.
RESPONDENTS.

RESPONDENT AIR 7 SEAS' REPLY AND OPPOSITION TO COMPLAINANT'S MOTION TO COMPEL

Respondent Air 7 Seas Transport Logistics, Inc. ("Respondent" or "Air 7 Seas"), pursuant to 46 CFR 502.150, files this reply and opposition to Complainant's Motion to Compel. For the following reasons, Respondent requests Complainant's Motion to Compel be denied and Complainant ordered to attempt to confer in good faith before filing motions requiring unnecessary expense from Respondent's opponents.

I. Introduction and Procedural History

1. On May 27, 2026, Respondent, Air 7 Seas provided in good faith a response to Complainant's first set of interrogatories and request for production of documents ("RFP"), of which response to RFP No. 5: "Produce any 'Financial Team' or 'Management' reports or internal ledgers that support the $22,580.00 demand issued on December 16, 2025" stated "The invoice for $22,580.00 has not been located yet. Will be produced when found". See Exhibit A.
2. On May 28, 2026, Complainant sent another email, referring to it as a "meet and confer", demanded accounting ledgers or original invoices be produced by Monday, June 1, 2026

1:00PM PT with respect to response to RFP No 5. Being “Incomplete”. Complainant did not include in its email either a request or provide reasonable opportunity to meet and confer. Complainant instead set forth and stated the email itself to be the meet and confer. On top of that, she provided a deadline not citing any authority and then threatened a Motion to Compel without addressed the meet and confer requirement. Complainant has failed to meet minimum requirements of good faith meeting and conferring. See Exhibit B.

3. On June 1, 2026, Respondent’s counsel nonetheless emailed Complainant in good faith updating Complainant on status of obtaining documents and answers and understanding of documents with respect to RFP No. 5. In addition, and at the same time, Respondent’s counsel was preparing an outline of the parties and in what capacity they acted and what services they provided which was not relayed to Complainant. See Exhibit C.
4. On June 2, 2026, Complainant emailed Respondent Air 7 Seas stating its deadline identified in the invalid meet and confer issued by Complainant had passed and therefore considered in her opinion the parties at an impasse and would be filing its Motion to Compel – again, contrary to FMC’s good faith requirements and all the while when counsel for Respondent was reviewing documents recently acquired for inclusion. See Exhibit D.
5. Again on June 2, 2026 and moments after Complainant’s last email, Complainant filed (prematurely) with the FMC the “Motion to Compel Proper Discovery Responses from Respondent Air 7 Seas” even though Complainant had not adequately satisfied Federal Maritime Commission requirements to meet-and-confer with Respondent. Respondent’s counsel in good faith though updated Complainant on progress of obtaining those very documents and answers from Respondent. Specifically, those efforts were directed at RFP No. 5. See Exhibit E.
6. On June 3, 2026, Respondent’s counsel emailed Complainant explaining Respondents lead in the matter was unavailable due to illness. Respondent’s counsel also noted in the email to Complainant that Complainant’s deadlines were self-imposed and therefore not valid. Respondent’s counsel objected to Complainant’s self-imposed deadlines and Complainant’s continuous decisions to not communicate various available times for a meet-and-confer seeking a cooperative time for all and then unilaterally proceeding.

Respondent's position is self-imposed deadlines are consistent with failing to meet and confer which does not satisfy FMC minimum requirements. In fact, Complainant's actions are purposely designed to avoid a meet and confer to its own advantage.

Complainant did not respond to this email. See Exhibit F.

7. On June 16, 2026, Respondent's counsel again emailed Complainant after Respondent's counsel spoke with Respondent for the first time since Respondent had been available and recovered from an illness (and since Respondent's counsel had returned from an emergency visit to the State of Montana to see his brother who has a serious illness) and updated Complainant on new information received from Respondent including a Timeline as Respondent's counsel had previously discussed. Respondent's counsel noted in email to Complainant that because so many players are involved, the exercise to respond to RFP No. 5 was complicated for Respondent. Respondent's counsel concluded by requesting Complainant to withdraw its Motion to Compel immediately. See Exhibit G.
8. On June 17, 2026, Complainant emailed Respondent declining to withdraw its Motion to Compel and noted in fact the motion was pending. Ironically, Complainant also stated to be not in agreement for any resolution outside Commission's rules. See Exhibit H.

II. Overview of Parties' Roles

1. Respondent, performing services as a destination agent, received notice of arrival from AMOOV, a party herein and a licensed NVOCC with an accompanying request that Respondent secure and hire a warehouse so that Complainant's goods could be normal course offboarded into a Florida warehouse with proximity to Complainant's provided address in Florida.
2. Respondent was hired by and performed services for AMOOV. Lifestyle invoiced Respondent for the warehouse services provided to Complainant, Nancy Prior and Rob Prior. In the course of the transactions, AMOOV, when still in business, requested that Air 7 Seas procure the warehouse to provide storage services for Complainant and Rob Prior. Air 7 Seas, after securing the warehouse and discussing with warehouse the goods arrival and sufficient space for the goods to be safely warehoused. Thereafter, AMOOV, not being paid by Complainant, requested Air 7 Seas to place a hold on Complainant and Rob Prior's goods. The services rendered by Air 7 Seas relative to storage and incidental warehouse series continued not to be paid by AMOOV so that Air 7 Seas on its own behalf instigated a hold on Complainant and Rob Prior's goods. Later and perhaps at or about the time that Lifestyle warehouse issued a final demand payment to Air 7 Seas and at a time when AMOOV's business had failed and they were out of business, Air 7 Seas paid the final demand of AMOOV. Prior to that, apparently Complainant and Rob Prior paid some of the Lifestyle warehouse charges.

3. In the meantime, Complainant and Rob Prior were making demand upon Air 7 Seas to release their goods threatening bringing a claim against Air 7 Seas with the Federal Maritime Commission. After internal discussion of certain individuals within Air 7 Seas, Air 7 Seas decided to pay the final demand and advanced sufficient funds to cure for Lifestyle warehouse to ameliorate the convoluted payment situation arising due to AMOOV going out of business and to release its hold. Air 7 Seas decided to release its hold as well and subsequently posted the necessary funds for that to occur. Rob Prior then very shortly thereafter took delivery of Complainant's and Rob Prior's goods.
4. AMOOV was not paid by Complainant; FreightLead was not paid by Complainant and Respondent was not paid by Complainant. All services rendered by Respondent were for the benefit of Complainant. All services rendered to Complainant by Respondent were post port arrival and relating solely to the inland warehousing facility and incidental expense thereto. With further research and discussions with Air 7 Seas accounting, please see Exhibit I, which is the Revised and Adjusted Invoice marked Invoice #: A7SA25-7081-1 in the sum of $8,380.00 which is outstanding and owed to Respondent. With respect to this invoice attached as Exhibit I, there are other charges. For instance, there is another warehouse invoice wherein the charges in the sum of $7,000 and which is not presented at this time as Lifestyle has of yet made no demand for its payment. Respondent reserves its rights with respect to any outstanding funds still owing to AMOOV and/or Lifestyle and/or any other charges from other entities pertaining to the within shipment if Complainant and Rob Prior fail to make the payments demanded, all of which were for their benefit and value of benefit conferred as relates to unjust enrichment.

III. Air 7 Seas' Reply and Opposition to Complainant's Motion to Compel

1. Respondent Air 7 Seas respectfully submits it has attempted, in good faith, to resolve its disagreements with Complainant. The freight was being held by AMOOV and the freight was also being held by FreightLead as well as Respondent itself towards the end. The holds occurred because Complainant and Rob Prior failed to pay what was justly owed to AMOOV and to each of the parties hereto except Lifestyle.
2. Before Counsel to Respondent had the chance to meet with its client and on or about May 28, 2025, Complainant demanded production of documents instituting a self-imposed deadline only 1.5 business days away and without attempting to meet-and-confer with Respondent's counsel even though Counsel to Respondent had previously updated Complainant as to status. Complainant, without first conferring with Respondent in good faith, resorted to this Motion to Compel prematurely and inconsistent with Commission Rules.
3. Attached hereto at Exhibit J is the original invoice Air 7 Seas sent to AMOOV for $22,215.00. That included various invoices from other entities for which no demand has yet been made. Complainant requested Respondent send Respondent's invoice to AMOOV for payment. Reportedly, according to AMOOV, it did not have sufficient funds to pay the invoice because AMOOV had not been paid by Complainant. When Air 7 Seas sent its invoice to AMOOV, it added to the invoice a $65 administration fee bringing the requested total to $22,580.00 attached hereto as Exhibit K. The services rendered exclusively benefited Complainant and Rob Prior. The Timeline attached as Exhibit L contains emails thus far found relating to the herein matter. The Timeline largely uses emails to set the date chronologically of occurrences. Complainant and Rob Prior, as of the date of this document, owe Respondent $8,380.00 as above noted. The invoice which sets forth the amount owed is noted above and attached as Exhibit I.

Attached hereto as Exhibit L is Respondent's Motion for Leave to File Out of Time dated June 18, 2026 to file by today's date June 26, 2026 relative to Respondent's illness and further document, email and timeline efforts.

III. Conclusion

1. For the foregoing reasons, Respondent requests (a) Complainant's Motion to Compel be denied and (b) Complainant be directed to meet and confer in good faith as required by Commission Rules of Practice and Procedures 502.150 (a) (1).

2. Respondent further requests the Commission order Complainant to pay to Respondent the sum of $8,380.00 as and for services rendered by Respondent which Complainant never paid and requests the Complainant be rewarded nothing with respect to its Complaint.
3. Respondent requests the Federal Maritime Commission impose sanctions on Complainant for not participating in good faith in meet and confer and Respondent reserves its rights with respect to the Complaint and other actions taken against it by Nancy Prior.
4. Alternatively, Respondent requests the Federal Maritime Commission dismiss Complainant's Complaint as any and all services rendered by Respondent herein occurred in its capacity as an arrival notice agent performing services related to warehousing and services incidental to warehousing.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct as researched and as explained by client. It is a complicated pattern because of the NVOCC's failure as a business. The NVOCC has been for months now out of business. Should the Judge wish a confirmation from the client, we will quickly obtain next week and file.

Respectfully Submitted.

Dear Mr. Countryman,

I am in receipt of Air 7 Seas' responses to my First Set of Interrogatories and Requests for Production, served at 9:50 PM on May 27, 2026.

Pursuant to 46 C.F.R. § 502.141(j), please consider this email my formal request to meet and confer via email regarding clear omissions and material contradictions in your client's production. Specifically:

1. Contradictory and Incomplete Responses (RFP No. 5 & Interrogatory No. 4): Your written responses state under oath that the underlying billing records and original invoice supporting the $22,580.00 demand "has not been located yet." However, your production under RFP No. 1 includes specific email correspondence detailing this exact calculated demand. Please resolve this contradiction and produce the formal underlying accounting ledger or original invoice that generated this specific figure.

Please provide these missing ledger entries/invoices by Monday, June 1, 2026, at 5:00 PM ET. If this critical production is not completed by the deadline, I will consider the parties at an impasse and will proceed with a Motion to Compel.

Sincerely,

Nancy Prior

Nancy,

Please know our client has been under the weather so I have been unable to speak with her. My contact with her is important. I will not send anything until then.

In addition, even in light of your self-imposed deadlines, I advised my client to please answer and submit but you object anyway. Your objections are completely obtuse and unconnected to any fact which leads to understanding of what your objection really is. If you are going to send an objection, then it ought to be couched based upon facts which make the objections real instead of just allegations. Accordingly, we object to your objections.

Incredibly and even though you receive information, you then proceed to file a Motion to Compel which under genteel practice guides in my opinion is very poor form. In fact, I have only had this kind of experience from a handful of opponents in my fifty years of practice.

I am hopeful that my client will be feeling much better in the next week and will respond to you then.

Nancy,

I have had an opportunity to speak with my client and receive other information from her. Because of the number of players involved together with the great number of facts and the odd part of AMOOV ceasing to do business, the exercise became more complicated to my client as far as necessary documents were concerned. Then of course there is the interplay of the warehouse, Lifestyle relative to funds being paid or not being paid and then the fact where I cannot discern from anywhere that you or Rob paid anything to anyone regarding services rendered after the cargo landed in Miami. On top of that, there is the issue of goods in the warehouse, Lifestyle which were ostensibly damaged in the warehouse, Lifestyle and then shipping documents which have contrary values set forth, all of which has become very disturbing to me.

Additionally, I have completed with the help of our client an accurate timeline of events, an important piece of evidence necessary to this particular matter which you will also be receiving. My client and I are scheduled to speak again this Thursday.

As a final note, I request you withdraw your Motion to Compel immediately. It never should have been filed in the first place as I have cooperated on behalf of my client in responding and even wrote to you shortly prior to your filing saying that we would be filing.

Motion for Leave to File Out of Time

BEFORE THE

DOCKET NO. 26-02

NANCY PRIOR,

v.

AMOOV GROUP, FREIGHTLEAD LLC,
AIR 7 SEAS TRANSPORT LOGISTICS, INC.
RESPONDENTS.

RESPONDENT AIR 7 SEAS' MOTION FOR LEAVE
TO FILE OUT OF TIME

Pursuant to 46 C.F.R. § 502.102, Respondent, Air 7 Seas Transport Logistics, Inc. ("Air 7 Seas") files this motion for leave to file Respondent's Reply and Opposition to Complainant's Motion to Compel Discovery Response – Request for Production of Documents No. 5 on or before Friday, June 26, 2026. Despite counsel's best efforts, Respondent, Air 7 Seas was unable to meet the deadline to file their Reply and Opposition to Complainant's Motion to Compel Air 7 Seas' Discovery Response – Request for Production of Documents No. 5. Counsel's principal contact at Air 7 Seas was suffering from illness. In addition, Counsel's brother was suffering from serious illness requiring counsel's attention and visitation in the State of Montana.

Also, the factual matters arising from Complainant failing to pay its NVOCC for their charges created a significant amount of paperwork running between Complainant, the NVOCC, the Ground Transportation Agent, the Warehouse and Respondent. There is and continues to be significant work in the generation, review and recovery of several emails, documents and invoices. There has been and is significant effort in the location, generation, review and recovery of several emails, documents and invoices.

Complainant's Request for Production No. 5 resulted in Respondent searching for the invoice it sent months before and then finding an iteration of that invoice that was $65 less than the demand. The invoice including the $65 and totaling $22,850.00 has been located and then services itemized along with the amount to be paid for each service. That document speaks for itself and is attached hereto as Exhibit 1. However, several questions arose that needed answering concerning why Complainant was requesting that our client pay her when our client had not been paid by AMOOV and AMOOV had not been paid by Complainant.

As a result of the payment situation, the downstream vendors placed holds on the goods to encourage payment – AMOOV included. AMOOV has not been reachable for well over a month. Though unbeknownst to Respondent, AMOOV at that particular time it is believed was contemplating closing its business. In my correspondence to Complainant, I indicated there were questions remaining and information I did not understand in terms of relationships. I explained to Complainant that I was not ready to release everything until I fully understood what had occurred.

There are but a few questions remaining for which Respondent is searching materials for further documents or emails. Those documents and answers are forthcoming and we respectfully request until Friday, June 26, 2026 to file Respondent, Air 7 Seas' Reply and Opposition to Complainant, Nancy Prior's Motion to Compel Discovery Response of Respondent, Air 7 Seas. Respondent objects to Complainant's Motion to Compel as premature because consistently, except for some time during illness and to some degree even during illness, this Respondent and its lawyer were gathering and/or attempting to gather information, study occurrences and so advised Complainant.

Respondent, Air 7 Seas does not believe any prejudice will result to any party from this delay. We have conferred with Complainant, Nancy Prior, Pro Se some days ago requesting the Motion be withdrawn as the motion was filed prematurely since work was underway to answer Complainant's Discovery RFP No. 5. Respondent refused, stating the following: "Complainant declines to withdraw the motion and has not agreed to any extension of discovery deadlines or any informal resolution outside the Commission's rules and procedures". We also wrote to Complainant today's date indicating our intent to file this Motion and asking her if she had issue with the motion being filed. As of this time, 6:00PM EST, Complainant has not responded to that correspondence and we file this request as response remains outstanding.

As of this date, our client is searching for additional materials for a complete explanation of Respondent's position with respect to Complainant's Discovery Request to Air 7 Seas – Request for Production of Document No. 5 which then caused further question and additional work and research, especially as AMOOV has not been responding ostensibly because AMOOV is out of business.
