4 MR. LACEY: Tiffany, I'm objecting to this
5 exhibit because it was sent to in-house legal
6 counsel. It looks like we perhaps shouldn't have
7 produced it. So I'm objecting on privilege grounds.

8 But

9 MS. COMPRES: Who is legal counsel on this --

10 MR. LACEY: Marcus Braden, Bradley.

11 MS. COMPRES: -- e-mail? Marcus Bradley.
12 Interesting. Okay. This is not a circumstance I
13 have had. So why don't we -- let's break for five
14 minutes.

15 THE REPORTER: Sure.

16 MS. COMPRES: Is that all right for everybody?

17 MR. LACEY: Okay.

18 MS. COMPRES: We'll go off the record.

19 THE REPORTER: One second. I'll take us off.

21 THE REPORTER: We're back on record. The

23 MS. COMPRES: Thank you. So I took a look at

1 Epic_0051377. I don't believe that this document is
2 privileged. The document does not contain any
3 attorney-client privilege material. Why can't I see
4 everybody? Sorry. Oh, there you are. Okay. The
5 document doesn't contain any attorney-client
6 privilege material. Just because in-house counsel
7 is copied does not mean that the document actually
8 is privileged or not. So again, there is no
9 attorney-client advice being given here. This
10 document is plainly not privileged.

11 MR. LACEY: I think that the -- there is --
12 attorney legal advice is being sought and the 13 privilege extends to communications made for the 14 purpose of receiving or giving legal advice. So I
15 think the communications to in-house counsel,
16 whether or not counsel responded, are privileged.

17 MS. COMPRES: And I'm sorry, Yohanse addressed
18 himself to Keith and Keith is not in-house counsel.
19 So I don't think that any in-house counsel advice
20 was being sought.

21 MR. LACEY: Well, I think that --

22 MS. COMPRES: If in-house Counsel advice were 23 being sought, he would have copied in-house -- he
24 would have responded addressing himself to in-house

6 to other persons that are not counsel.

11 MS. COMPRES: Well, that doesn't mean that it's

13 deposition or -- to continue with other documents
14 and then re-depose Mr. Manzanarez to go over this
15 document later, it's going to be at Epic Omni
16 charge, first of all. Second of all, we're going to 17 go to the judge with this to ensure that we can use
18 this document and ask questions about it because it
19 is not attorney-client privilege. It is plainly

Tiffany Compres

From: Lacey, Nicholas <NLacey@beneschlaw.com>
Sent: Friday, October 6, 2023 11:51 AM
To: Tiffany Compres; Blubaugh, Marc
Cc: Gene Burd; Yine Rodríguez Pérez
Subject: RE: TPG v. Omni/Epic: Extension to Deadlines

Tiffany:

Thank you. Here is our position on the issues you have raised.

- Extension. When we raised the prospect of extending the briefing schedule, we were really just looking for a modest extension—of two weeks or so—because Marc plans to be out of the office on a family trip at the end of December. Respondents are not amenable to a two-month extension of all the outstanding dates on the case schedule. Based on the content of your proposed motion, we will oppose the motion as drafted, though we are not opposed in principle to a surgical extension of select dates.
- Merger Documents. When we spoke three weeks ago, you said you “understood” our objection to producing confidential deal documents and proposed to limit TPG’s request to “agreements between Epic and Omni that pertain to their work together in providing logistics services to customers and related services (such as billing) to each other.” Can you please advise as to the reversal of your position? We think the deposition testimony provided last week clarified the relevant points about the relationship between the two respondent entities.
- Other Documents. Respondents have already produced the documents responsive to the categories you have raised, with the exception of two documents which we will produce yet today, one of which we would have expected TPG to produce to Respondents.
- Privileged Emails. Respondents are not waiving the attorney-client privilege, as was made clear on the record in last Thursday’s deposition. For the avoidance of doubt, consider this email Respondents’ claw back request.

Thanks,
Nick

Subject: TPG v. Omni/Epic: Extension, Housekeeping

Dear Marc and Nick,

A few housekeeping items:

1. Extension of Deadlines. I recall Marc that you were interested in extending Epic/Omni's briefing deadline. We propose the following for a joint motion:
 - a. Dec. 8: Disclosure of Expert Reports
 - b. Dec. 20: Last day for discovery requests
 - c. Jan. 19: Rebuttal Expert Reports
 - d. Feb. 2: Complete expert depositions, close of all discovery.
 - e. Feb. 9: Complainant's brief

- f. March 1: Opposition Brief
- g. March 15: Reply Brief

2.

3. Merger documents. As discussed in the depositions, please provide the merger documents for the Omni/Epic merger. We are happy to make it "attorney's eyes only."

4. Other documents promised. Also please confirm the existence of other documents discussed during depositions, and provide:

- a. Per Mr. Manzanarez's deposition, documents evidencing situations in which Epic/Omni "couldn't provide [the documentation necessary to support invoice charges], ... there was ample times where we actually waived, absorbed those costs, as a concession to Thompson."
- b. Per Mr. Ikemoto's deposition, documents evidencing agreements with TPG to bill all charges for demurrage of multiple containers on each container invoice.

✓ A. Okay.

10 Q. So you see it's 5,473.68 and the backup that
11 we have for this -- and it appears to be only one
12 container, right, that is being billed here. Am I -- am
13 I wrong?

14 A. No, that's -- that's correct. An invoice is 15 for one container.

16 Q. Okay. Okay. And then you'll see here, the 17 only supporting documentation for demurrage appears to 18 be this, and it's for a number of containers. And 19 that's the only document that it seems could justify
20 that $5,000 number. So is this -- is this something
21 that, you know, could occur?

22 A. Yes, so I know on certain projects, certain
23 communication, I'm pretty -- I -- I'd have to look, but
24 I'm pretty certain that on this one, we agreed either
25 from speaking to Alex or -- or Adriana, that we would 0076

1 apply that BLs charges or all of it on one. I -- I
2 don't believe that we would have charged the 5,000 here
3 and then 5,000 on another container.

4 Q. Would you -- would you be able to check on
5 that and send me that communication if you find it?
6 Send it to your Counsel and he'll send it to me.

7 A. Understood. I will do that.

- c. Per Mr. Ikemoto's deposition, SOPs (standard operating procedure documents) relating to TPG.

6. Bradley Emails. We do not need to re-depose Manzanarez, but we did find an additional 14 emails on which Bradley is copied, all part of 2 strings relating to the same subject matter. We do not believe these are privileged because they do not request, not does Bradley provide, legal advice in these. Simply put, the primary reason for these communications was not legal advice. To be privileged, a communication must be “for the purpose of securing primarily either (i) an opinion on law or (ii) legal services or (iii) assistance in some legal proceeding.” United States v. ISS Marine Servs., 905 F. Supp. 2d 121, 128 (D.D.C. 2012) (emphasis in the original) (citing In re Grand Jury, 475 F.3d 1299, 1304 (D.C. Cir. 2007)). To determine the primary purpose, courts apply a strict “but for” standard, which requires a party claiming privilege to demonstrate that “the communication would not have been made ‘but for’ the fact that legal advice was sought.” Id. (internal citations omitted). We intend to use some of these in our briefs. We have not received a claw back request from you, so we assume you are not maintaining your privilege objection.
